

Oxford Ranks First in North American Sustainability Performance

Oxford Properties Group has earned the top spot in the Global Real Estate Sustainability Benchmark (GRESB) survey as the North American Regional Sector Leader in the Diversified-Office and Retail category. Increased energy and water efficiency, LEED certification, sustainability targets, and a new Green Lease for tenants helped Oxford Properties increase its ranking from third in the Americas (private) and fifth globally in 2012.

Oxford thanks our customers, business partners, stakeholders, and employees – we could not have achieved these results without you. We are proud of our progress to date and we're just getting started!

“Oxford’s ranking reflects the commitment of our tenants, customers, partners and employees to make sustainable practices a priority and drive meaningful results across our portfolio of buildings. In every interaction, every day at Oxford, we strive to continually improve our world class reputation, returns and commitment to doing the right thing when it comes to sustainability.”
